WEDNESDAY MORNING, MARCH 17, 1818. THE FAULT FINDER-WORDS OF WISDOM. We copy the following series of truisms from the Philadel; his Inquirer: "It is, we repeat, the easiest thing in the world to censure. The merchant in his counting-room, the attorney in his office, the manufacturer in his mill, the father in his bousehold, are all more or less addicted to this foible, forgetful or unmindful of the infirmities of human nature, insensible to their to make due allowance for youth, indiscretion, bad example, and the many other circumstances by which life and society are influenced and surrounded. To be peevish. fretful and censorious, is to be narrow, unwise and ungenerous. If, moreover, we are who can never see anything in a favorable will be sold very cheap.
